Good afternoon everyone and welcome to the Easy Buy Stadium, home of Barton Town Football Club - a semi-professional team who play in the Premier Division of the Northern Counties East League.

Today is about supporting diversity in football and showing that homophobia has NO place in sport and a core value of our Community Club.

With that in mind we are happy to support The Ben Cohen Stand Up Foundation - an anti-bullying charity that pays particular attention to the LGBT community.

The premise of today's match is based upon 'Fantasy Football' gaming with an all-time 'Fantasy England' team taking on an all-time 'Fantasy Rest of the World team'. Players in both teams will include men and women from the LGBT community and see them wear shirts bearing the names of some of the greatest players in the history of 'Fantasy Football'

Some of these shirts will be raffled off after the game along with signed Ben Cohen T-shirts, a family ticket to a Scunthorpe United game as well as the star prize of an PS4 games console and Fifa 18 footballing game. The winning team captain will be presented with the Rainbow Cup.

I hope everyone donates as much as they can to this worthy charity and has a fun-filled time.

EVERYONE is welcome at this club and I hope some of you decide to come back and support/adopt the club during the 2018/19 season and enjoy further football with us.

Enjoy the Game

Owen Taylor

(Barton Town FC Community Officer)

I StandUp Against Bullying!

"I am passionate about Standing Up to bullying wherever it happens... that is why I started the world's first anti-bullying foundation. I lost my own father to violence when he stood up for an employee who was being attacked. I've heard from many people how bullying has adversely impacted their lives. Parents have shared painful stories of bullying their children have experienced. Others have been bullied in the workplace or for their gender or sexual orientation. These stories move me to StandUp for what is right."

- Ben Cohen, MBE, Founder

We want to raise awareness of the long-term, damaging effects of bullying and to fund organisations who are tackling bullying in schools, at work, in our communities, in sport and online.

Every person on this planet has a right to be true to themselves and be happy.

When we stand up together, we stand up a bit taller

Our Vision

Creating a world of understanding and kindness together

Our Mission

To raise awareness of the long-term, damaging effects of bullying by building a collaborative organisation that helps connect communities and to raise funds to support those doing real-world work to eradicate bullying

The Ben Cohen StandUp Foundation is the world's first foundation dedicated to raising awareness of the long-term, damaging effects of bullying by connecting communities and raising funds to support those doing real-world work to eradicate bullying.

We stand up against bullying regardless of to whom it happens. We support organisations and projects that help stop bullying, help those hurt by bullying and/or help increase equality and diversity. We do this because up to 50% of children and young people and many adults in the UK say they have experienced bullying. People who are lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender are even more likely to be bullied. People who are bullied feel disconnected, leading to a sense of isolation and loneliness. They are often wary of others and lack quality friendships. They can suffer from low self-esteem, poor achievement, an increased risk of depression or anxiety and, in extreme cases, a higher risk of suicide.

The Foundation was started in 2012 by Ben Cohen, former rugby union international and 2003 Rugby World Cup Winner. Ben was moved to launch the Foundation following the terrible events of his father's death when he was fatally injured trying to protect an employee.

Since 2012, governed by the charity's Trustees, the Ben Cohen StandUp Foundation has grown from strength to strength and we are proud to have supported over 43 charities and organisations. We raise funds for these organisations through holding fundraising events and by receiving donations from individuals from their own fundraising efforts. We also receive support from corporate organisations by working in collaboration to help them achieve their citizenship aims of supporting communities. This support has enabled us to make grants to a growing number of organisations that are taking action against bullying across a broad spectrum of areas including schools, online, in the workplace, amongst the LGBT community and in sport.

We are a highly collaborative organisation that helps connect communities to create a world of tolerance, understanding and kindness.

England

Gordon Banks

He made 628 appearances during a 15-year career in the Football League, and won 73 caps for his country. Regarded as one of the greatest goalkeepers of all time, the IFFHS named Banks the second-best goalkeeper of the 20th century – after Lev Yashin and ahead of Dino Zoff.

Gary Neville

Neville spent his entire playing career at Old Trafford, making him a one-club man. At the time of his retirement in 2011, he was Manchester United's second longest serving player in the squad. Making his international debut in 1995 he was first-choice right-back for England for more than ten years being capped 85 times.

Stuart Pearce

Pearce played as a defender and appeared for several clubs, but is best known for his spell at Nottingham Forest, where he regularly captained the team and became the club's most capped International, making 76 of his 78 appearances for England while with the club and captaining the national side nine times.

George Cohen

Cohen spent his entire playing career at Fulham where he proved his worth as a committed and strong full back and was the right-sided full back for the England side that won the 1966 World Cup. He has been inducted into the English Football Hall of Fame and is the uncle of rugby union World Cup winner, Ben Cohen.

Paul Scholes

Scholes played his entire professional career for Manchester United and was regarded as one of the best midfielders of his generation. Appearing in the England national team from 1997 to 2004, he gained 66 caps and participated in the 1998 and 2002 World Cups, as well as the UEFA Euro 2000 and Euro 2004.

Bobby Moore

Moore captained West Ham United for more than ten years and was captain of the England team that won the 1966 World Cup. He is widely regarded as one of the greatest defenders of all time, and was cited by Pelé as the greatest defender that he had ever played against.

David Beckham

Known for his range of passing, crossing ability and bending free-kicks as a right winger, Beckham was runner up in the Ballon d'Or, twice runner-up for FIFA World Player of the Year and in 2004 he was named by Pelé in the FIFA 100 list of the world's greatest living players. He has been a UNICEF UK ambassador since 2005.

Paul Gascoigne

Perhaps better known by his nickname, Gazza, he earned 57 caps during his England career and has been described by the National Football Museum as "the most naturally gifted English midfielder of his generation". He famously cried after receiving a yellow card in the 1990 World Cup semi-final with West Germany.

England

Gary Lineker

He holds England's record for goals in FIFA World Cup finals, with 10 scored, but is perhaps better known as presenting BBC's Match of the Day since the late 1990s. Regarded as one of England's best strikers, he made his England debut in 1984, earning 80 caps and scoring forty-eight goals in an eight-year international career.

Wayne Rooney

He has played much of his career as a forward, and he has also been used in various midfield roles. He is the record goalscorer for the England national team and for Manchester United. made his senior international debut for England in February 2003 aged 17 and he is England's youngest ever goalscorer.

Bobby Charlton

Regarded as one of the greatest midfielders of all time, selected for four World Cups, and an essential member of the England team who won the World Cup in 1966, the year he also won the Ballon d'Or. Renowned for his attacking instincts and passing abilities from midfield and his ferocious long-range shot.

Alan Shearer

He played as a striker in the top level of English league football and the England national team. Until his retirement from international football in 2000, he appeared 63 times for his country and scored 30 goals. Named by Pelé in the FIFA 100 list of the world's greatest living players in 2004.

Glenn Hoddle

In 2007, he was inducted into the National Football Museum Hall of Fame, which cited him as one of the most gifted English footballers of his generation, exhibiting "sublime balance and close control, unrivalled passing and vision and extraordinary shooting ability, both from open play and set pieces"

Kevin Keegan

As a player in the 1970s and 1980s, he has been described as "arguably the first superstar English player to attract the modern media spotlight". He began his playing career at Scunthorpe United in 1968, before moving to Liverpool in 1971. He was capped 63 times for England, gaining his first in 1972, and scored 21 goals.

Geoff Hurst

He began his career with West Ham United, where he scored 242 goals in 500 first team appearances. In total he scored 24 goals in 49 England appearances, and he remains the only man to score a hat-trick in a World Cup final. As well as success in 1966 he also appeared at UEFA Euro 1968 and 1970 FIFA World Cup.

Alf Ramsey - Manager

Manager of the England national football team from 1963 to 1974, guiding England to victory in the 1966 FIFA World Cup. Knighted in 1967 in recognition of England's World Cup win, Ramsey also managed England to third place in the 1968 European Championship and the quarter-finals of the 1970 World Cup.

Rest of the World

Dino Zoff

A goalkeeper of outstanding ability, and he has a place in the history of the sport among the very best in this role. The oldest winner ever of the World Cup, which he earned as captain of the Italian national team in the 1982 tournament in Spain, also winning the award for best goalkeeper of the tournament.

Cafu

Regarded as one of the greatest full-backs of all time, one of the best footballers of his generation, and as one of Brazil's best ever players, Cafu is the most-capped Brazilian men's player of all time with 142, including a record 21 World Cup games. He has won two World Cups in 1994 and 2002.

Roberto Carlos

Nicknamed El Hombre Bala ("The Bullet Man") due to his powerful bending free kicks, which have been measured at over 105 miles per hour (169 km/h). Starting his career as a forward but spent most of his career as a left-back and has been described as the "most offensive-minded left-back in the history of the game".

Franz Beckenbauer

A versatile player who started out as a midfielder, Beckenbauer made his name as a central defender. He is often credited as having invented the role of the modern sweeper or libero. Early in his playing career he was nicknamed Der Kaiser ("The Emperor") because of his elegant style, dominance and leadership on the field.

Paolo Maldini

Maldini captained Italy for eight years and held the record for appearances made as Italy's captain, wearing the armband 74 times. Maldini is widely regarded as one of the greatest defenders of all time. He played at a world class level for his entire career spanning two-and-a-half decades.

Johan Cruyff

Cruyff was the most famous exponent of the football philosophy known as Total Football. Cruyff led the Netherlands to the final of the 1974 FIFA World Cup and received the Golden Ball as player of the tournament. At the 1974 finals, he executed a feint that subsequently was named after him, the "Cruyff Turn".

Zinedine Zidane

Nicknamed "Zizou", Zidane was an elite playmaker, renowned for his elegance, vision, ball control and technique. Capped 108 times by France, Zidane won the 1998 FIFA World Cup, scoring twice in the final, becoming a national hero in France, and he received the Légion d'honneur in 1998.

Michel Platini

Nicknamed Le Roi (The King) for his ability and leadership. Despite primarily serving as an advanced midfield playmaker, he was a prolific goalscorer. Platini was a key player of the France national team that won the 1984 European Championship, a tournament in which he was the top scorer and best player.

Rest of the World

Pelé

Pelé began playing for Santos at age 15 and the Brazil national football team at 16. During his international career, he won three FIFA World Cups. Pelé is the all-time leading goalscorer for Brazil with 77 goals in 92 games. Pelé has also been known for connecting the phrase "The Beautiful Game" with football.

Lionel Messi

Often considered the best player in the world & regarded by many as the greatest of all time, Messi has a record-tying five Ballon d'Or awards, four of which he won consecutively, & five European Golden Shoes. He has spent his entire professional career with Barcelona, where he has won 32 trophies.

George Best

Played as a winger for Manchester United and Northern Ireland national team. In 1968, he won the European Cup with Manchester United, and was named the European Footballer of the Year. The Irish Football Association described him as the "greatest player to ever pull on the green shirt of Northern Ireland"

Osvaldo Ardiles

A competitive and skilled midfielder, Ardiles became a cult hero in England, along with Glenn Hoddle and compatriot Ricardo Villa, as a player for Tottenham Hotspur. He left England for a period on loan as a result of the outbreak of the Falklands War in 1982, thus missing most of the 1982–83 English season

Cristiano Ronaldo

Often considered the best player in the world and widely regarded as one of the greatest of all time Ronaldo has a record-tying five Ballon d'Or awards, the most for a European player, and is the first player to win four European Golden Shoes. He has scored over 670 senior career goals for club and country.

Eric Cantona

A large, physically strong, hard-working, and tenacious forward, who combined technical skill and creativity with power and goalscoring ability, Cantona was given his full international debut against West Germany in August 1987 by national team manager Henri Michel.

Diego Maradona

An advanced playmaker who operated in the classic number 10 position, who many in the sport, including football writers, players, and fans, regard as the greatest football player of all time. Maradona was given the nickname "El Pibe de Oro" ("The Golden Boy"), a name that stuck with him throughout his career

Vittorio Pozzo - Manager

Only one man has lifted the World Cup twice as manager. Vittorio Pozzo did it for the first time in 1934, when Italy beat Czechoslovakia. Four years later they retained their championship by beating Hungary in Paris. In between the victories, Pozzo also guided Italy to the Olympic gold medal in 1936.

Today's Captains

Mark Gregory
'England' Captain

I think the opposition are going very strong with several ex-semi professional players but I'm pretty confident that we'll give them a good game.

I'm looking forward to playing although we're not getting any younger, but I think the club doing a charity event like this each year is a good thing

I think the idea of having the teams today having to include female players is a great move by the club and the organisers

Sean Money
'Rest of the World' Captain

I'm very happy with my squad - well I will be if they all turn up!!!

Definitely confident about today's match - the only reason to get a squad together for the game is because I want to win the Rainbow Trophy.

I have a few ex-Barton Town players in the team and we have other players that are coming from the local area.

It should be a great day - the whole event is for a good cause and I hope we'll raise a decent amount of money today.
